

Talk for Writing

At Oakfield children are taught to write through the process of Talk for Writing. This follows a pattern of Imitation, Innovation and Independent Application. During the Imitation stage, children get to know a text well by orally rehearsing it, exploring it through drama and then reading it for vocabulary, comprehension and writer tools. The Innovation stage is focussed on shared writing with emphasis on handwriting, phonics/spelling and grammar in relation to the text type being taught. The final stage, Independent Application, enables children to draft, edit and publish their own independent version.
